

INFO SAVVY21

RETHINKING OUR MISSION: LEADERSHIP FOR THE DIGITAL AGE A PRIVATE DINNER EVENT WITH IAN JUKES

Who is Ian Jukes?

Ian is a renowned speaker and consultant, but first and foremost he is an educator. He has been a classroom teacher, a school, district, and provincial officer, and a university instructor. He is a world class speaker and international consultant who has worked with educators and organizations in more than 80 countries and made more than 11,000 presentations. To date, he has written or co-written 17 books and nine educational series about modern learning, and has had hundreds of articles published in both educational and business magazines. Ian has been recognized as one of the top ten educational speakers in America and was recently rated the top presenter at EduTech 2014.

What is he going to do?

Ian's going to help you. Today, Australian leaders are under relentless pressure. Every day, there are a 1000 management issues that scream for attention - from student performance to teacher accountability to covering teacher absences to dealing with plugged toilets – and all this is expected to be done with less funding. On top of all of these demands, principals are expected to be instructional leaders for their staff. This event offers a lifeline to overtaxed principals struggling with the issues of how to be effective instructional leaders while managing the day-to-day operation of their schools. In Ian's energetic and entertaining manner, he will outline specific strategies and identify essential resources that can be used for leading educators into meaningful instructional change in the digital age.

“ Ian's wealth of knowledge in so many areas and his willingness to share this knowledge so freely has had a profound impact on our beliefs about learning. ”
- Jane Boyle, Principal, Brauer College

INFO SAVVY21

Why is he doing this?

Because Ian understands how hard it is to be an educational leader today. Having been in the classroom, he knows that teachers need support for dealing with the enormous changes that are coming to schools. We may have heard some of the reasons why schools need to change and what we need to change, but many of us just don't know how to accomplish this. This event provides proven and sustainable strategies, methods, resources, and support to empower educational leaders to build capacity amongst their teaching staff, and transform daily educational practice, while at the same time maintaining the focus on student achievement.

When is he doing this?

May to July 2016 at venues throughout Australia including regional centres. Keep posted for updates on up and coming events in a location near you.

Location:

Event Locations
Melbourne	Cairns
Geelong	Brisbane
Adelaide	Sydney
Perth	Dubbo
Darwin	Canberra
Alice Springs	Launceston
Hobart	Bryon Bay

INFO SAVVY21

How is he doing this?

Ian's inviting you to join him for an intimate dinner evening event offered to a limited number of principals and leaders. He will make a 75-minute presentation on the topic of realistic instructional leadership for principals working in the digital age. What will be unique about this event is the interactive nature of the presentation, followed by plenty of time for questions and conversation with Ian and fellow colleagues as you work through implementing the ideas Ian has presented.

Seize this unique opportunity to network, share ideas, and rethink our mission for leadership in the digital age.

What participants will take away?

Practical ideas focused on Leadership For the Digital Age®, developed from the original and proven research of bestselling author Ian Jukes and his professional team.

The Leadership For the Digital Age Participant's Workbook.

Access to an extensive Leadership For the Digital Age Resource Library.
The opportunity to network and share ideas with your professional colleagues.
A truly memorable experience, with ideas that will stick.

What is the cost?

$350.00

Register today!!! Limited enrolment. Registration Information...

“Ian is the educator's educator. He challenges and encourages teachers to push their own boundaries - to become 'natural' learners similar to what they were like as children before formalized school - to reignite their own passion for life long learning.”
- Delia Jenkins, Brauer College